tens of thousands WILL NOT MAKE
that crux point

where for 7,000 years

ancients wet their whistles digging charpits in the stretch two rivers funnel into a narrow strip; now subdivided at Hwy 191 with barbed-wire flanks, the herd risk the middle way hurtling through the bottleneck, as cars, trucks, gas-field semis run them down the perilous corridor. To taxpayers' annoyance, kindred souls have built a thin overpass just for them.
